For 40 years, CAY has provided northern New Mexico communities with emergency services, shelter, counseling, and housing to survivors of domestic and sexual violence, and child and elder abuse. A major part of CAY’s success is the financial donations and dedicated volunteer support from our community members. Thanks to this, CAY provided 828 people with confidential and free services this past fiscal year.

Transitional Housing Annual Report

CAY’s award-winning Transitional Housing Program provides subsidized housing for up to 24 months to individuals and families leaving emergency shelter or other unsafe situations. Based on the unique needs of each household, the program tailors support and resources for participants to develop stability and skills to live safely and independently again. Since expanding the program to off-site leased housing, CAY has housed 18 households, and is currently housing 8 households of 8 adults and 7 children. This year we will see an additional 6 houses added to the program.

Past CAY Transitional Housing Program participants share their stories:

My family was in a terrible situation. I didn’t know how I was going to get out. I felt stuck and that led me to CAY. I don’t regret my decision. I am constantly encouraged by the staff and people I have met because of them. I can raise my daughter and know exactly what’s on the other side of my front door when I come home.

The transitional housing program afforded me the opportunity to stay here in New Mexico and not leave my family across the country. A huge deal, when you have special needs family members...I don’t have the words to share the opportunity that was afforded to me through the CAY what I can say is that they’ve renewed my faith in people, love, and community and I don’t know what I’d do without it.
